HILLO'S QUAKE HEAVY SHAKE

(Special to the Bulletin) HILLO, Hawaii, Sept. 26.—The largest piece of excitement that Hilo and vicinity has experienced within the age of the present generation came off last Sunday evening at a few minutes after 8 o'clock in the shape of an earthquake that shook for keeps while it lasted. Its duration was about fourteen seconds, and moved from west to east. The pulsations were short and full of snap, and anything in the shape of household fixings that were not tied down had to move. One instance, that of a heavy tub of ferns sitting on a three-legged stool was moved over five feet from its original location by the short, sharp kicks of the quake. Near the Crater The Volcano House the shock was quite severe, an unusual happening. It is seldom that a shock is felt on the Volcano itself even though it may be quite heavy in the surrounding country. Damage Nearly every store in Hilo sustained damage by goods being thrown from the shelves to the floor, but the damage in any single instance will not exceed $50. People Excited Excitement among the populace ran high during the quake and for some time after. Nearly every one rushed out of doors, including the congregations in the various churches. It is reported that a small tidal wave, in the neighborhood of four feet high, came in onto the beach shortly after the quake, but quickly subsided, doing no damage along the waterfront. Second Shock There was a second shock about ten minutes after the big one, and it started in with every prospect of equaling its recent predecessor, but quieted down after a couple of jerks that rattled the windows and got everybody started for the streets again. There have been several perceptible trembles since, and at about 7 p. m. on Tuesday there was a very distinct shock that was considerably more than perceptible, but very short. Earth Opens Evidence of the earth's movement is made manifest in a large earth crack between the Shipman place and the Volcano House. This crack was caused by the heavy shock Sunday evening and is quite deep and long. Pit Watchman Moves The queer actions of Kilauea on Sunday were too much for the watchman at the crater. While he is quite

AMERICAN-HAWAIIAN ROUTES CHANGED

End of Sugar Season Causes Temporary Changes

The last of the sugar season has caused a slight change in the Pacific schedule of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, which will affect Hawaii. The northern triangle run, from San Francisco to Seattle to Honolulu and return to San Francisco, will be suspended, or rather changed about the other way, and the vessels will run from here to Seattle, to Tacoma, to San Francisco, and return to Honolulu. The Tehuantepec run will be suspended until some time in December, after the run of the Columbian. The first vessel making the new run on the northern triangle route of the company is the Alameda, which sails from the Sound on the 11th of next month, going to San Francisco, and leaving that port for this place on the 16th. The Columbian, which is due here next Thursday, will be the last steamer to make the Tehuantepec run until the sugar season opens up again in December. The company is accepting freight locally, however, for shipment to New York via Tehuantepec, even after this trip of the Columbian. The freight will be taken to San Francisco, and transferred there to the steamers of the company which are on the Coast run down to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, and thence to New York in the usual way. Practically, then, the freight service with New York is entirely uninterrupted, the difference merely being in the route over which the goods will be shipped for a month or more to come.

Though fire on board, which has been extinguished, was reported by cable as having broken out on the Alameda while she was loading for this port, she sailed at noon today, on schedule time, for this port. Cable advices to this effect were received this morning by the local agents, Irwin & Co. The Alameda is due here on the second of next month, if she makes her usual time. It is presumed that the extent of damage done by fire was not great.

HOME RULERS HOLD HAWAII CONVENTION

Notley Reported To Have Been Nominated For Senator

The Home Rule county convention of Hawaii was held at Kona last Wednesday afternoon, commencing at 5 o'clock. All the delegates to the convention were present with the exception of a few members. The steamer Mauna Kea was chartered for carrying the delegates to Kona. Aside from the delegates a large number of ladies and musicians went along as guests. The convention reconvened on Thursday and the following were nominated for various positions. For Senators, D. Baker and C. Notley; for Representatives, Keahilani (Continued on Page 2)

PLANS FOR FLEET PEARL HARBOR TRIP

Will Go in Iroquois And Take Train To Wahila

The officers of the Pacific Fleet on their return from Sgmos will be taken to Pearl Harbor in the U. S. S. Iroquois, instead of going overland. This was definitely decided on this morning at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Pacific Fleet, which met in the offices of Fred L. Waldron, the chairman. After visiting the harbor and lunching there, they, accompanied by the committee and a few townsmen, will be conveyed to Wahila in a special train. W. E. Brown promised to give fresh pine from his farm to the officers. They will return overland. It is expected that the Fleet will arrive here between October 5th and 7th. (Continued on Page 2)

FLEET DUE TO SAIL

If moving according to schedule, the United States Pacific Fleet is in Pago Pago now, and will sail from that port for Honolulu tomorrow. Confidence is expressed among naval people here that the ships will come back to Honolulu as scheduled. Pago Pago is some distance from the cable, and communication with that place not very frequent. $1.25 waists for 65c at Whitney & Marsh's sale next Thursday.

Earth Revolted At Link's Campaign Talk

Link McCandless spoke on Hawaii and even patient Mother Earth revolted and threw his meeting into confusion. This happened in Puna last Sunday, when an earthquake pretty nearly shook down the school house in which Link was holding forth, and the meeting had to be called off. The news of this incident, which certainly looks like a very evil omen, is contained in a letter from Link himself, written to John Emmeluth, his right-hand man here.

Under date of Hilo, Sept. 22, Link writes in part as follows: "We have held a meeting here and it was very well attended, and we have held a meeting at Papakou, one at Olua, and last Sunday we went to Puna and held a meeting Sunday evening in the school house, and during the meeting we had a very terrific earthquake, which very nearly shook the school house down, and the people were falling all over each other, and the water tank alongside the school house was shaken down. We had to adjourn our meeting till Monday morning, which was very well attended by the residents of Kalapana, and we think, very satisfactory to us. After the meeting we drove to Pahoa, and from Pahoa to Kapoho, a distance of twenty-one miles, and held a meeting that seemed to be very satisfactory to us.

"We will leave here Oct. 5 on the Claudine for Maui; will speak at Hana Oct. 5, in the evening, and go to Kahului the next day and will campaign on Maui until Oct. 9, leaving Lahaina in the Mauna Kea Oct. 9, arriving at Honolulu Oct. 10."

Sheriff Iaukea, who returned this afternoon from Kona, states that the resignations of Dan Kamahu, Chas. Rose and John Prendergast will be called for to take effect at the end of the month, as they have become engaged in active politics. The coroner's jury in the Kana case went to the Queen's Hospital this afternoon to hear the testimony of Kamallikane, who was in the house with the deceased when the fire occurred.
